Zephyrus Presents a Year's Flight

It is appropriate that the theme of this year's Zephyrus should be a "Flight Through Democracy." In leafing through the pages of this book you will see that we form a true pattern of young America at work and at play. It is a true pattern because we are America preparing for the time when a great responsibility will rest upon our shoulders.

1944-45 Log

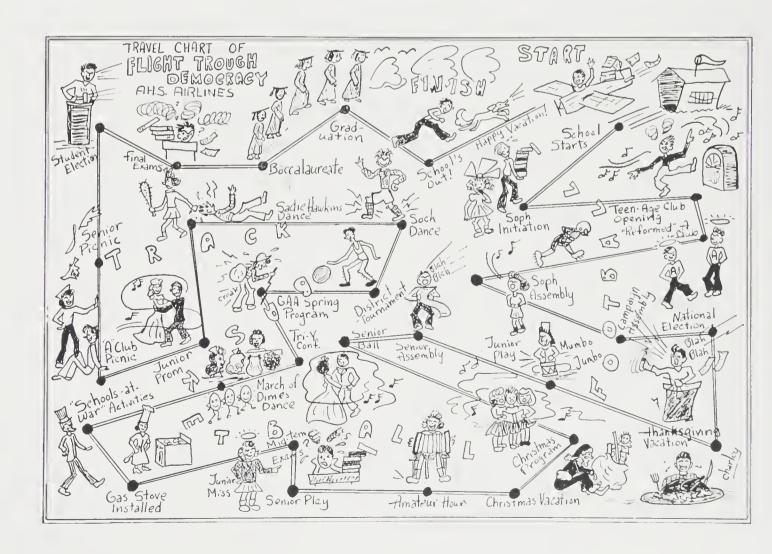

Despite a smaller enrollment and the continual inroads made by the draft and enlistments in the ranks of the boys, the students rose to the situation and carried through a program of activities that made the year 1944-45 a memorable one.

What Senior will forget the experience of preparing speeches for the Bill of Rights assembly? The joy of leaving the school to the ghosts and the underclassmen on Senior picnic day? The solemnity of marching down the aisle in a cap and gown?

Will any Junior forget the thrill of producing his first high school class play or of preparing for the Junior Prom?

Can the Sophs ever forget how ghastly the girls looked with green ribbons on their hair and with no make-up? Or the fun of just plain being in high school?

What about the time that A.H.S. elected President Roosevelt? What about the district tournament? The high school carnival? The peppy assemblies? These are the experiences that the students will remember as being typical of high school life.

Dedicated to Democracy in Action . . . in classes

As every pleasant day of school goes by, We gain an understanding through the way We study all our subjects and express Our thoughts in this great struggle for fair play. We find a freedom as we study here: A chance to find and reach each distant goal, To show we've got the stuff it takes to make A nation worthy of its famous role. We look to classes, teachers, and our school To make our future flights show sharp and clear; And that sweet freedom found right now Will linger in our minds each future year. It's here in school we learn to tolerate And then forgive mistakes and show our love To all who are around us. Surely, we know That we must work to reach these heights above Which are our goals, and now mid work and play, Development of mind and body show That we can handle all that fate can give As we help freedom expand and grow.

Joyce Tverberg '45.

. . in activities

The jangling bell has rung, and school is out. Hurrah! the shackles fall away; we're free To work or loaf, to plan, to win or fail, To be exactly what we want to be. And as we strive to lead our groups and clubs To make of them, a thing to match our pride, We know we're cultivating hearts and minds That work toward the best—that won't abide With that which cannot match our high flung goals. Our personalities will either be So straight and true or warped with ugly greed. We find that we must choose nobility Or cowardice. We must show hope to those Who find their way in strange, confused unrest; For while we work with friends, both new and old We show a light for all the world's depressed. So here we slowly plan and train our lives Where freedom's flaming branch is held on high; For life belongs to youth who work in fun Since it's on us the world must now rely.

Superintendent A. C. Hampton

Pilot Hampton Sees Education As Tower Signal

Along with other administrators all over the country, Superintendent Hampton's year was filled with two types of problems. There were those concerned with maintaining a war time education program and those concerned with the education needs for the period of adjustment in the post war days.

Like other superintendents, Mr. Hampton was faced with the task of teacher replacement every so often; however, the senior high school suffered no losses. The Defense School was continued this year with fifty boys enrolled. Those from Astoria High were scheduled for a half day at the Defense School for pre-induction training.

Plans for the peace time days are underway. There is an especial interest in the physical education set-up and the vocational program. A vocational center, which will serve high school students, adults, and returned servicemen, is definitely under consideration. A survey for such a center has been made. This survey is being used as a pattern for other states.

As usual Superintendent Hampton arranged for special teachers' meetings and made it possible for A.H.S. teachers to participate in an in-service training program. Mr. Hampton also gave his support to a series of lectures carrying college credit.

Navigator Towler Is Consulted By Crew Regarding Course

September 27 brought the usual rush of students to Principal Towler's office for schedule adjustments. Programs had been forecast the previous spring, but transfers, part time workers, and vocational students, as well as others, had problems that needed ironing out.

Because of shifting Navy personnel more students than usual transferred this year. Many boys now in the service took advantage of the United States Armed Forces Institute to complete their high school work.

The student body participated in bond drives, clothing drives, and in the March of Dimes. The school joined the Junior Red Cross 100 per cent, and earned the Schools-at-War flag. The shop classes made many articles for the wounded at the Navy Hospital. Clubs aided in the Christmas Seal sales and at the blood donor center.

An expansion of some activities and the addition of others are being planned. Equipment and directing personnel have to be secured. Principal Towler gave the usual service examinations.

Crew Goes to Work

Astoria High's administrative crew is composed of the student council and flight officer, Principal E. D. Towler. The council can be credited with a successful year for they managed every financial situation with great efficiency. They sit at the controls which operate a fleet of other student body activities, a few of which are the issuing of student body cards at the beginning of the year, determining how much admission should be charged for game tickets, and introducing projects to the school clubs.

Don Hogg held the position of president until he was called for the service. Peeling off the formation to pick up the gavel, came Wayne Deaver, the first vice president. The remaining part of this little squadron consists of second vice president, Howard Lovvold; third vice president, Ronald Lattin; secretary, Dorothy Samuelson; treasurer, Phyllis Salmonsen, and the athletic manager, Joe Bakkensen.

Livewires Collect Student Taxes

Roll room livewires started the ball rolling in the fall of '44 by collecting student body fees and canvassing for Zephyrus subscriptions. One of the chief activities of the livewires is to collect money for the annual. Under the able direction of Business Adviser Miss Vesta Lamb and Business Manager Jeanette Larson, the livewires were in need of a battery recharge by May, after accounting for Zephyrus money and helping at the end of the year to distribute the three hundred and eighty ordered copies of the year book. They also mailed out annuals to the 1944 alumni of Astoria High who are now in the service.

It is the duty of the livewires to stimulate enthusiasm in the various roll rooms by announcing extra curricular activities and drives. Among those promoted were voluntary Red Cross donations, drives for coat hangers, ash trays, and Christmas tree ornaments for the Naval Hospital, and clothes for the devastated countries of Europe. The livewires did much to help encourage the sale of War Stamps and Bonds.

Miscellaneous duties include seeing that the roll rooms are orderly and that the overdue library slips are distributed. The livewires were a very essential group for they coped with all unexpected and planned activities which were encountered during the school year. They may well be proud of their contributions to the running of the school.

The livewires from the various classes and roll rooms were as follows: Sophomores, Susan Cook, room 5; Ronald Lattin, room 29; Betty Lowrey, room 12; Louise Wilson, room 13; Juniors, Harry Frame, room 1; Arlene Larson, room 28; Jean O'Bryan, room 25; Avis Roberts, room 26; Seniors, Earl Fedje, room 2; Helen Koe, room 24. Roll room 23 was deprived of its able livewire, Ronald Trenholm, who left for Oregon State in January.

Astor Post, Journalism Class Merge . . .

With the words, "Where is your story?" ringing in their ears, Adviser Miss Fern Curry, Editor Judith Seeborg, Assistant Editor Mary Williams, and the Astor Post staff look back on a year full of nerve wracking dead lines and fun in putting out the paper.

To give instruction in publishing a paper and to help those who plan to continue journalism in college, a journalism class with credits was organized for the second year. The bulk of the Astor Post work was done by the class members, but credit must also be given those "Flunkies" who stayed to help put the paper to bed on deadline days.

On February 26, the class adopted a soldier, "Hannibal." To supply him with food Miss Curry and each student bought fifty cents worth of war stamps each week.

When Bob Kendall, advertising manager, entered college in January, Miss Anna Marie Friedrich, business adviser, and the advertising department were handicapped. Marion Sorensen, business manager, and Harry Sorensen, assistant advertising manager, helped out, with the aid of an ambitious group of Sophomores.

A hard working and generous business staff made it possible to dress up the pages with an unusual number of photographs and a comic strip. A bouquet should be given Charlotte Johnson for the art work and Wayne Saiget for the photographs.

Besides putting out fourteen editions, the Astor Post staff sponsored a Sixth War Loan drive, netting $6,094.85, and held a March of Dimes dance, yielding $45 to the Infantile Paralysis drive.

Astor Post Page Assistants

... swing into action

With Editor Judith Seeborg leading the way, the Astor Post page editors and their assistants put the final thirty on the year's publication, the Senior edition. Because of the efforts of a wide awake journalism class, this years' issues of the Astor Post were marked by a distinct improvement in the quality of material, the make-up, and in the general organization.

More emphasis was placed on the Junior High page. To brighten up this section, Editor Joyce Kleger used linoleum block cuts. In the spring term a comic strip was added. Thanks to the efforts of Charlotte Johnson.

The traditional gossip column was successfully eliminated by Assistant Editor Mary Williams, who substituted various types of columns playing up peronalities. By request the "Three L'il Fishers" were continued. For variety, however, in addition to silhouettes, block cuts and even photographs were used in this column.

To add interest to stories of outstanding school events, photographs taken of the various activities were a welcome addition to the front page. The Tournament issue, picturing the first string of the basketball team along with their baby pictures, accompanied by interviews of the mothers, drew the greatest reader interest. The front page was further enlivened with interviews of notables, such as Governor Snell and United States Senator Wayne Morse.

Receiving Instructions

Keeping in step with the times, Astaria High's faculty geared their 1944-45 pragram to the purpose of preparing their pupils for adjustment to life after the war. Many of the classroom activities centered around research, farums, and discussions on such current topics as the United Nations and Education. By these means the teachers endeavared to help the students meet their awn problems and to broaden their thinking to a worldwide scape.

In arder to lead the students, the teachers had to keep a step ahead with their own knowledge. In their professional meetings they carried an a study camparing Chinese, Russian, and Mexican schools with American schools, and also canducted a study of the book, "Education for All American Youth".

Amang ather surveys, Mr. Cax served an a cammittee af teachers which campared the teachers' salaries with thase af teachers in ather cities the size af Astaria. Miss Bergman's sacial prablems class held a raund table discussian far the faculty an the subject af education.

Department meetings of senior high and junior high teachers helped coardinate the work of all three junior highs with the senior high school. Several of the teachers were fortunate enough to attend In-service Conferences of the mathematics and science departments.

Along with these activities, the faculty devated time to war work at the Ration Board, U.S.O., and haspitals. All things considered, the teachers were busy in school and out, keeping abreast of the latest trends in education.

Personnel Points the Way

What is more important in developing the spirit of democracy than encouraging cooperation? And what is a better example of cooperation than that between the teachers and the students of A.H.S., especially in extracurricular activities?

Each teacher acts in an advisory capacity for one or more of the service clubs, dramatic productions, athletic organizations, and publications. Before school, during the noon interval, and after school, teachers meet with student committees to lay plans for student participation in activities which provide normal and wholesome outlets for youth. Evening games, dances, carnivals, and exhibitions find the teachers on the job with the students.

Seniors Take Off

In September, 1942, one hundred and ten Sophomores started their expedition through high school. In three years their number dwindled to eighty-six. While Sophomores, they were rudely uprooted by the school fire and forced to attend classes in three buildings.

The class was active in the war effort. Many of the Seniors had after-school jobs. All members of the class belonged to the Junior Red Cross. They collected clothes hangers, Christmas tree ornaments and ash trays for the Naval Hospital. Seniors took part in two paper drives and the collection of clothes. They bought and sold war bonds.

As Seniors they innovated public round table discussions and the omission of flowers and gifts at Commencement exercises. They also held a mock presidential election. Neither pins nor rings were ordered because the students thought the tradition unpatriotic this year.

As this year's class march down the aisles of the U.S.O., in the almost traditional blue caps and gowns, they can be assured that they are well equipped to meet the challenges of the present and the future.

Junior Officers

The Class of '46 started the year off right by participating in a class competition bond sale. With the able assistance of the class president, Howard Lovvold, they came out on top. The Juniors continued their bond and stamp selling in cooperation with the other classes and through various clubs. To increase student interest in succeeding war drives the Juniors put on an assembly program including a Schools-at-War skit.

The highlight of the year was the class play, another three-act mystery thriller. With Miss Maud Crouter directing, the cast distinguished themselves in their production of "Mumbo Jumbo". Vernon Griffin and Clarence Parker shared the lead.

Slated for April 20, the 1945 Junior Prom was one of the outstanding events of the school year. The class transformed the gym into an interior setting of a southern colonial mansion. Louise Hughes was general chairman and Delores Becker, decorating chairman.

As Sophomores the class of '46 put on the traditional Sophomore Hop. With Howard Lovvold as prexy, the class was organized and its talent put into action in the Amateur Hour and other assemblies.

The Juniors will be back next year to continue their activities and to fill the Senior ranks.

Teen Age Club

If you happen to be walking along Exchange Street between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets on any Friday or Saturday evening, you will probably get entangled in a stream of kids going to the Teen Age Club Suppose you decide to go in to see what the place offers First, you go down a flight of stairs; then you flash your card to the control room and amble an in. To the light is the check room. To the left is the bar and the red dance floor, complete with a juke box. In front of you is the game room, equipped with two ping pong tables and a pool table. You stand debating whether you should play a game of ping pong (if you can get the table), have a milk shake, or dance. At the close of the evening in these pleasant surroundings, you gather your belongings and walk out with a feeling of having had a really good time.

Officers in charge of the Teen Age Club when it first opened were president, Wayne Deaver; treasurer, Jack Ockelmann; secretary, Susan Cook. New officers who took over in the spring of the year were president, Janet Puranen; treasurer, Harry Sorenson.

The club is run and governed by students. Any student from the ninth to the twelfth grade is eligible for membership.

Football

In a season full of ups and downs the Fishermen came through their schedule of eight football games with four losses and four wins on their record. Coached by "Bill" Bowers and "Brick" Grayum, the boys won all but one of their home games, played on Gyro Field. For the first time in years, Gyro Field was without rain during every game. When traveling, the Fishermen played an muddy fields in practically every contest.

Opening the season, Naselle was swamped 24 to 0. A week later, the Fishermen repeated with a win over Ilwaco, 19-0. Then the team lost two raad games —Milwaukie salvaged a 26 ta 6 win and The Dalles a 31 to 6 victory.

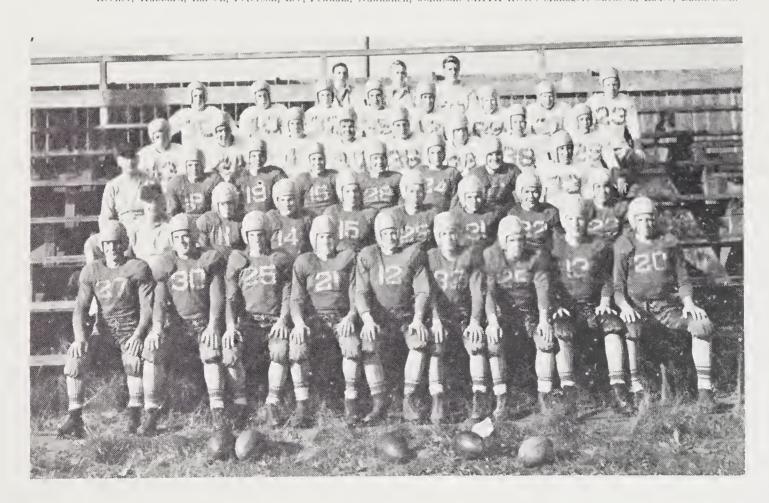

At home again the Fishermen fought Seaside in a tense game, finishing on the long end of a 7 to 0 score. At Tillamook, the Fishermen sneaked a 6 to 0 win. In the last game of the season and the last home game, Hood River dunked the Fishermen 13 to 0.

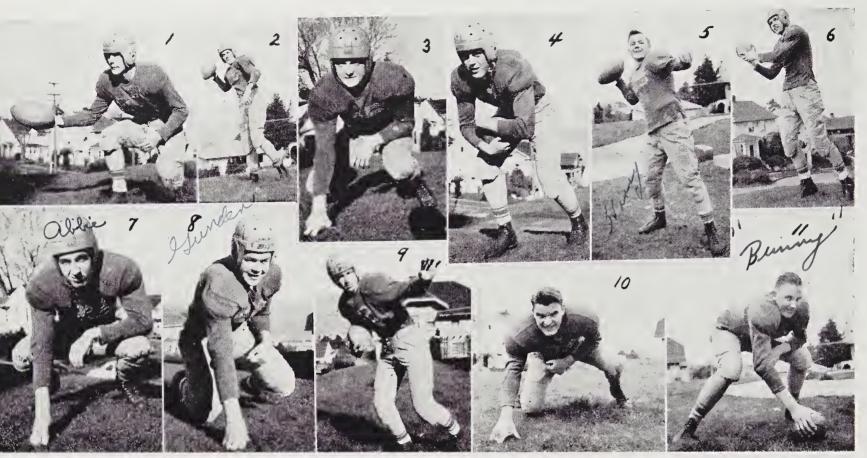

COACH "BILL" BOWERS

Dick Bumala, Chuck Bergman, Harry Frame, Earl Fedje, and Eldon Korpela stand aut as stars, but it took perfect teamwark to earn the reputation the Fishermen own, "never give up". Thirteen Seniors played their last season of high school football. They were Bob Kearney, Bob Kendall, Chuck Bergman, Eldon Karpela, Earl Fedje, George Olsen, Ronald Trenholm, Dan Hagg, Don Hansen, Gardon Gerttula, Fuzzy Foster, Ed Burnett, and Bob Frame.

- DICK BUMALA, Junior, and a twa-year letterman, will strengthen Astaria's team next year.
- EARL FEDJE, Seniar, warked with the team to earn fullback pasition in his last year af faatball.
- HARRY FRAME, Juniar and fullback, like his brather Bab, gave his support by taking the ball against the appasing teams.
- GORDON GERTTULA, Seniar, played his first year af eleven-man faatball ta grab dawn an end pasitian and gave his support to the Fighting Fishermen eleven.
- BILL GUNDERSON, big Juniar, strengthened the Fishermen at either guard or tackle pasitians.
- BOB HAGERUP, Juniar, held up Astaria's farward wall at tackle.
- ALBIN IHANDER, a big and fast guard-tackle. He is a gaad defensive player.
- ELDON KORPELA, Seníar halfback, smallest man in the backfield and an expert ot tackling, warried the appasition with his dangerous broken-field running.
- HOWARD LOVVOLD, Junior, dependable end. His uncanny ability led the Fishermen's aerial attack.
- GEORGE OLSEN, Seníar, number ane an the "Olsen, Johnson, Hansan" cambinatían af Fishermen centers, blacked up 190 paunds' warth af Astaría's líne.

Basketball

The 1944-45 basketball season closed with a total of twenty wins and eleven losses, but the score does not tell the whole story. Of the eleven losses, seven of the games were played out of town. They were lost by an average of only five points.

The Fishermen won their first four games. The following week, however, they lost to Milwaukie 41-30 for their first set back, but they came back strong to down Vernonia 54-47.

The next week a double header was split, with Hood River taking the first 36-29 and with Astoria taking the second 41-32. Following came a series of four wins when the Fishers dunked the Star of the Sea 30-27 and Westport 32-15. Scappoose then fell to the Fighting Finns 31-38, and Seaside 27-24.

Two losses, a double header, and one win resulted from their next three games.:

A double header was dropped to Salem, 30-24 and 38-28, which was followed by a win over Ilwaco 39-29. St. Helens beat the locals there 22-20 only to be beaten 34-19 on the Astoria court, after the Fishers had beaten Rainier 29-26.

The double header at Hood River was dropped, 42-36 and 39-31, as well as a single to Rainier, 26-22.

In the best-played games of the season, Astoria took the Salem double header, 37-34 and 30-29.

The Fishers suffered two heartbreakers: one to Seaside 41-38; the other to Milwaukie 37-32. They made up for their defeat by taking Westport 49-28, Hillsboro 30-24, and Ilwaco 42-30.

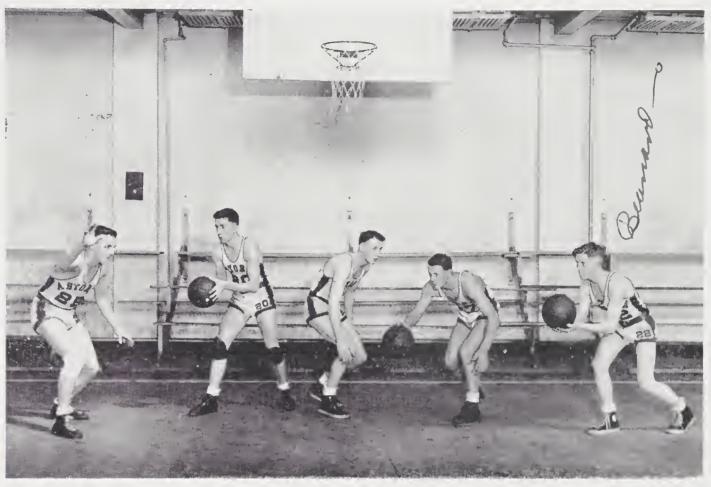

In the District Tournament the Fishermen took Tillamook 39-32, but lost to Hillsboro 39-36 after having beaten them twice previously. Astoria then took Beaverton 49-24 to take third place. They placed three men on the District All Star five.

FIRST ROW: Stratton, Mattson, Winningham, Morgan, Olson, Pekkala, SECOND ROW: Grayum, Sagen, Bakkensen, Harris, Korpela, Gunderson, Jackson.

Basketball Personnel GORDON GERTTULA, Senior, transfer from Knoppo-Svensen, broke into the storting lineup early in the year. Girls' League

The Girls' League, an all-student club for girls in high school, carried out its traditional program again this year with great success. One of the first events of the fall term was the Big and Little Sister party, to which each Sophomore girl was escorted by a Junior or Senior Big Sister. This party started off a whole year of activities. Although there were comparatively few meetings, one each six weeks, the ones that were held were outstanding events because of the entertaining programs presented. These included speakers, musical programs, and a program by the Spanish class. A registered nurse spoke on the advantages of Cadet Nursing; Miss Jo Schwab, an alumna and an overseas Red Cross recreational director, told about her adventures, particularly in Wales and in France. Something new this year was the presentation of three assemblies by the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore girls respectively.

Continuing an activity inaugurated last year, the Girls' League sold pencils to raise money to buy supplies for the Dean's room. This year the sale of cough drops was introduced. At Christmas time the tree, put up and decorated by the Girls' League, was the center for the carol singing in the main hall. In the Schools-at-War program the girls did their part by taking charge of bond and stamp sales during the month of May. Miss Isabel Willsie, Girls' League adviser, and Priscilla Berry, president, with the help of the other officers—Gerry Weaver, vice president; Dorothy Samuelson, secretary; Charlotte Johnson, treasurer, and Joyce Johnson, assistant treasurer—kept the Girls' League running smoothly through the year.

Music Department

The Music Department added another successful year to the already established record. Under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Ogden, the Choruses carried on the high standard of music in their year's activities. The Christmas assembly, begun with an impressive candle light procession, consisted of numbers from the "Music of Bethlehem." The entire department of ninety-three girls participated. The Junior-Senior Special Chorus sang Christmas carols at the Navy Hospital. This group also provided music for the Christmas meeting of the American Association of University Women.

In February the combined choruses presented a concert in the Methodist Church. Outstanding numbers on the program were the "Stephen Foster Fantasie", the andante cantabile movement of Tschaikovsky's Fifth Symphony arranged for three-part women's voices from Lorraine Findley's poem, "The Light of Dawning", and "Our Glorious America". Miss Ogden, besides directing, sang a solo, "Ave Maria".

The Junior-Senior Special Chorus sang two popular choral numbers, the "Sleigh" and "Sparkling Sunlight", as part of a program presented for the Rotarians in honor of their fortieth year as an organization. A portion of this program was broadcast over K.A.S.T. Earlier in the season this Chorus gave a Lobby Pop Concert at the U.S.O., entertained the Lewis and Clark P.-T.A., and sang at the John Jacob Astor Thanksgiving assembly.

To promote the sale of bonds and stamps the entire department furnished the music for a pageant sponsored by the Library Club, Tri-Y Cabinet, and the Hi-Y Club.

In its traditional final appearance of the year, the Department provided the music for the Baccalaureate and Commencement programs.

Sophomore Chorus

Deba Drams

The Deba Drams were organized in 1922 to promote dramatics in high school. This year, under President June Seeborg, the club embarked upon a variety of activities. They sponsored a Christmas ornament drive, sold tickets for the Lion's Club matinee concert, presented their Amateur Hour, promoted the Christmas Seal sale, sold programs at games. The other officers of the club were vice president, Dorothy Samuelson; secretary, Marion Sorensen; treasurer, Jeanette Larson; scrap book, Violet Widen; and adviser, Miss Zoe Allen.

Pep Club

Organized in 1928, the Pep Club has been under the supervision of Miss Betsy Wooton since 1932. With Donna Mitchell as president, the group stimulated school spirit, sponsored a basketball and a football banquet, a Sadie Hawkins dance, and sold pop, apples and candy at the games. Helping to send out letters containing tuberculosis seals and promoting War Bond and stamp sales rounded out a full year for the girls.

Hi-Knights

This year, the Hi-Knights lost four members, leaving five boys to carry out the annual traditions of policing the football and basketball games and keeping scores at games. To become a Hi-Knight, a student must have a G average, be willing to work, and meet certain qualities of leadership. Eldon Korpela was the able president with assistants John Foster, vice president; and Buell Berg, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Towler was the adviser.

Library Club

The Library Club, presided over by Miss Marjorie Halderman, consists of eleven members headed by President Dorothy Lamont; vice president, Molly Thompson; and secretary-treasurer, Lennah Parker. Each member spends one period a day as assistant librarian. Selling school supplies and ice cream, checking out and putting away books are a few of their responsibilities. Eligibility for membership is measured by dependability, high grade average, and an interest in books.

Tri-V

Under Marion Sorensen's leadership, the Tri-Y kept high the standards of the traditional activities, which include the Recognition Service, Tri-Y hamburgers at the Carnival, Print and Cord Dance, and Installation Banquet. The mid-winter conference, in spite of limited registration, was the most successful thing the club accomplished during the year. The Tri-Y also played an active part in the sale of war bonds and stamps as well as in the Junior Red Cross activities. Cabinet members include Marion Sorensen, president; Dorothy Samuelson, vice president; Lennah Parker, secretary; Mary Lou Bakkensen, treasurer; Louise Hughes, song leader; Dorothy Agidius, program; Phyllis Nygaard, food; Dorothy Quinn, recognition; Genice Curtis, installation; Joyce Johnson, publicity; Helen Mars, service; Jean Walker, senior representative; Annie Jean Jarvis, junior representative; Katherine Kuluris, Sophomore representative. Advisers were Mrs. S. Logue, Mrs. H. Grayum, Mrs. R. Hopson, and school adviser, Miss Anna Marie Friedrich.

Hi-Y

The purpose of the Alpha chapter of the Hi-Y, is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character. Traditional activity of ticket taking at school games was carried on by the members. Their annual sock dance was the outstanding activity of the year. President Wayne Deaver was assisted by Vice President Howard Lovvold, Secretary Wayne Saiget, and Treasurer Joe Bakkensen. Mr. Thompson, club adviser, has served seventeen of the twenty-three years of the club's existence.

The Hi-Y pin consists of a white cross surrounded by a red triangle. The white cross stands for purity, the red triangle for red-blooded service, and for growth in body, mind, and spirit.

The term Hi-Y, which is a contraction of the words High School and Young Men's Christian Association, was first used in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, in 1911, and became the popular term for high school Y.M.C.A. clubs.

"Mumbo Jumbo" . . . Junior play

Take the mystic Voodoo of the Indian Jungles; place it on a busy state highway; surround it with normal human beings and it will add up to the Junior play, "Mumbo Jumbo". It has three acts of hilarious nonsense, with crime elements entangled in the farce of a college boy, and two small-town sheriffs, who were unable to solve the crimes for battling over right of jurisdiction. The play is packed with Voodoo rites, a mysterious blind man, a beautiful girl under a hypnotic spell, a hidden fortune, and all other factors that make a successful mystery drama.

"Junior Miss"

... Senior play

The Senior play, "Junior Miss", surpassing all popularity records, was the talk of the town. The escapades of Judy Graves, thirteen-year-old, had her parents suffering from malnutrition of peace of mind and the audience rolling in the aisles.

Judy's imagination, inspired by a current movie, leads her to think that her father deeply loves his boss' daughter and that her Uncle Willis has just returned from a penitentiary. Besides conspiring to solve this imagined triangle, Judy and her bosom pal, Fuffy, are trying to "grow up" and wangle dates for a dance.

Somehow the plot untangles and Judy emerges a typical "Junior Miss".

Home Ec

The Home Ec Club, guided by Mrs. Dickerson, embarked on many worthwhile activities. They made wool skirts for Russian Relief. For the Naval Hospital the girls subscribed to "Esquire", made tray favors, and Christmas tree decorations.

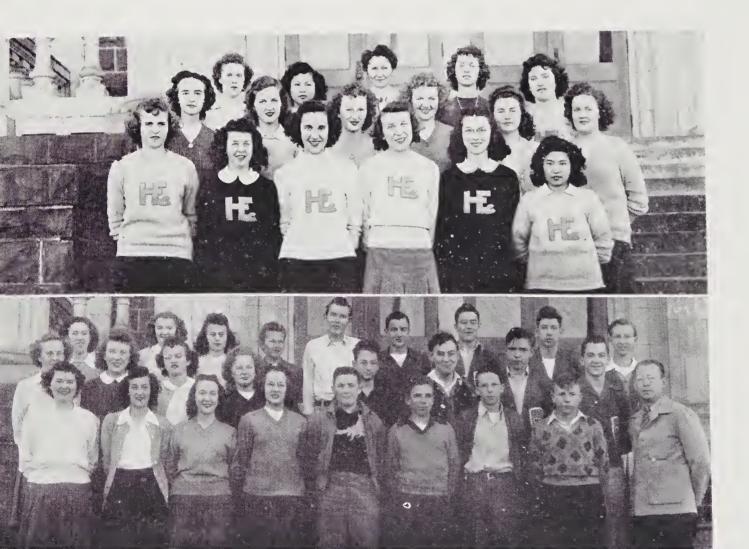

Besides packing boxes at the ration board, they sponsored a Mothers' Day Tea and a style show. During April, the club had charge of the Bond Booth

Vocational Students

The industrial relations class under the direction of Mr. Cox, contributes towards the training of youth for better jobs and better living. The boys are taught the rudiments of first aid, general math, shop, and mechanical drawing. The local vocational program has two set-ups: the trade and industrial students, who attend class and work on school time, and the general continuation, in which the students work after school hours.

"A" Clvb

The present sixteen members of the "A" Club are still fulfilling the purpose of their organization by helping to carry out school activities, to keep order among the boys in general, and to keep the Sophomore boys under control.

For the past two years, Mr. Bowers has served as the adviser of the "A" Club. During this school year, President Ronald Trenholm left for college; Vice President Charles Bergman joined the Navy and . . .

The main activity of the year was sponsoring the basketball and the football programs.

FIRST ROW: Korpela, Trenholm, Bergman, Bumala, SECOND ROW: Hogg, Kearney.

G.A.A.

Adviser, Miss Gertrude Branthover, and the officers, president, Joyce Kleger; vice president, Donna Mitchell; secretary, Dorothy Agidius; and treasurer, Helen Mars, planned the activities of G.A.A. to promote fun, fair play, and friendship. Archery, bowling, and nature work were added to the program. Girls earning ten points in any one of the several activities were eligible for membership.

Torch Honor

The Torch Honor Society was organized in 1926, for the purpose of promoting leadership, school citizenship, and recognition of good scholarship. It has set a high standard for Astoria high school both in scholastic achievements and participation in activities.

The nineteen members this year have all met the grade and citizenship requirements. They are under the able leadership of Gloria Engbretson, president, and Miss Mary McCann, adviser. The membership dropped from last years' thirty-four to nineteen this year. The decrease was partly due to smaller classes.

The Torch Honor has one meeting a month, which is held in room 24. These students will have an important part in the post war future of our country as useful citizens and efficient leaders. Other officers are vice president, Molly Thompson; secretary, Arlene Larson; and treasurer, Annie Jean Jarvis.

Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll, the most exclusive club in AHS, began the year with the sum total of three members enrolled on its books. These members, June Seeborg, Judith Seeborg, and Charlotte Johnson, held all the various offices as the need arose, from president all the way down the line to janitor.

This organization gave way toward spring, and adopted into its circle, five neophytes, including Marion Sorensen, Mary Williams, Mary Lou Bakkensen, Cherie Miller, and Joyce Kleger. These were properly initiated and inducted at Miss Curry's secret rendezvous, where a formal candlelight ceremony made new members of them.

Students must have done superior work in journalism, and have had a certain number of inches printed in order to qualify; also they must be in the upper third of their class. Those approved receive pins.

Zephyrus

April sixth is a memorable date for Editor Evelyn Wilson, the Zephyrus cabinet, the snap photographer, Wayne Saiget, and the adviser, Miss Fern Curry. On that date the last stack of Zephyrus copy was sent to the printer's. Hours of work and fun lie behind that date. Working efficiently with the staff were Business Manager Jeanette Larson and her adviser, Miss Vesta Lamb.

FIRST ROW: Johnson, Larson, Wilson, Engbretson, Berry, SECOND ROW: Miss Vesta Lamb, Lamont, Mitchell, Salmonsen, Miss Fern Curry, THIRD ROW: Bergman, Kendall, Saiget.
